Microsoft-owned GitHub i has been under intense scrutiny over its contract with Immigration and Customs Enforcement. Now Alice Goldfuss, has resigned.

In a tweet, Goldfuss said GitHub has a number of problems, "including but not limited to the latest."

Meanwhile, Vice reports at least five staffers quit today. This comes just days after GitHub announced its GitHub Universe conference, which is set to take place on November 13. The company's big product conference. Ahead of the Last month, GitHub staff engineer Sophie Haskins resigned because the company did not cancel its contract with ICE, reported.

Last month, GitHub employees penned an open letter urging working with ICE. That came following GitHub's announcement to nonprofit organizations in support of "immigrant communities." In that announcement, GitHub CEO Nat Friedman said the decision was made through one of GitHub's reseller partners and was "not material" for the company. Friedman also pointed out that less than immigration and detention facilities.

"[...] We recognize that ICE is responsible for both enforcement with which we passionately disagree, as well as policies such as fighting human trafficking," Friedman wrote. "We do not know the specific
